Hi friend,

While some folks see sunbathing on the beach as the ideal tropical vacation... there's another kind of traveler that often gets overlooked.

Does any of this sound familiar...?

Maybe you're the type who relaxes by teeing off beside a crystal clear sea (it's the tropics, after all, the beach is never far...)

Or, maybe you've mastered your local course, and seek an exciting new challenge that you'll never forget?

Or, perhaps you would like to hang on the beach with a cocktail—after you've played a few rounds of golf?

Heck... maybe you've never picked up a golf club in your life, but the idea of taking your first swing on a Jamaican Teeing ground is a dream you just can't shake.

In preparation for Father's Day, be sure to give your loved one a thoughtful gift of travel. Whatever you do on the day itself, you should top it off with something fantastic and special. Ignite his traveler spirit by choosing what he loves most—golf. Take him on an adventure and explore together in this beautiful world we live in.
